

Rental Services for Healthcare

Fast and Reliable Temporary Cooling Solutions

Hygienic, comfortable and safe healing environments

The highest standards of heating, cooling and air quality are needed in a healthcare environment. Each department has to meet stringent objectives for infection control and disease management, as well as for patient and staff comfort.

Healthcare services depend on their air conditioning system to control temperature, humidity and sterile filtration. This is especially crucial in areas such as surgery, radiology, maternity and intensive care. In addition, research shows that patients recover faster in correctly controlled ambient environments.

For these reasons, any failure or inadequacy of the HVAC system in a healthcare application is unacceptable as it will have a direct impact on patient safety and comfort.

Trane Rental expertise for healthcare

Where planned shutdowns or emergencies occur, Trane Rental Services have the expertise and equipment to substantially mitigate risk to patients and staff.

Trane delivers reliable and cost-effective rental solutions for healthcare facilities with varying levels of design complexity to help you sustain the HVAC capacity you need. Trane engineers will work with your operations team to perform an in-depth assessment of your requirements. The delivery and installation of rental units are scheduled to integrate seamlessly into your operation.
